講師：Cheryl Chung

講演題目：Shaping the Future Together: Participatory Foresight for Public Policy

講演概要：Effective public policy requires a forward-looking approach that anticipates and responds to emerging challenges and opportunities. However, traditional methods of policy development often fail to capture the complexity and dynamism of today's interconnected and rapidly evolving systems.

This talk will focus on participatory foresight approaches for public policy with some illustrative case studies from Singapore. We will discuss the need for a proactive and inclusive approach that engages a broader range of perspectives and incorporates multidisciplinary knowledge and explore how this approach involves engaging diverse stakeholders, including citizens, experts, policymakers, and civil society organizations, in a collaborative process of envisioning and planning for the future.
